BRIDE SEEKS DEATH, DESPITE HER LOVE

Mrs. Minnie Barrett Claps Husband's Picture as She Turns on Gas.

STOPS UP CRACKS TO MAKE END SURE

Life Saved by Action of Fellow Boarder—Was Married on Christmas Eve.

Discouraged because life was not as smooth as love's young dream had pictured it, Mrs. Minnie Barrett, of 249 K street northwest, a bride of only five months, this morning attempted to end it all by inhaling gas, and when discovered was just lapsing into unconsciousness, clasping her husband's photograph against her heart.

When the photograph she had written him her parting message: "I love you, good-bye."

She had prepared breakfast for her husband, Guy Barrett, an electrician, who is only a year older than she, and had bade him a fond good-bye, never giving him even the slightest intimation of her intention.

Made Preparations. When he had gone, she made her preparations to leave the world, closing her bedroom windows tightly, and placing a blanket on the floor against the door to prevent any gas escaping into the hall. Then she wrote her parting message on the photograph with a pencil, turned on the two gas cocks, and laid down on the bed to die.

She was discovered about an hour later by George McNally, who boards in the apartment beneath the one occupied by the Barrett. He detected the odor of gas, and summoned Policeman Bosler Castle, who rooms in the house, and together they broke down the door. The room was filled with gas, and Mrs. Barrett was lying on the bed on the verge of unconsciousness.

After opening the windows the men called for Patrolman Gail, who lives next door, and he sent in a call for an ambulance. The girl was rushed to the Emergency Hospital.

Out of Danger. There the physicians worked over her for two hours, and then announced that they thought she was out of danger. Her husband was notified, and he hastened to the bedside of his young wife.

The couple were married quietly on Christmas Eve last, and did not tell their friends of the marriage until a week later. Mrs. Barrett is a pretty girl, and she and Barrett had been sweethearts for two years.

Barrett, previous to taking up electrical work, acquired considerable fame as a trick cyclist, and two years ago rode down the shuttes at Luna Park on a unicycle.

The mother had suspected Marrio's design, and followed him, and when she found her fears justified she fired three shots, two of which struck Marrio in the breast, killing him instantly. She has been arrested.

DUKE'S COMPANION NOT BADLY HURT

PARIS, May 30.—Mrs. J. Farley Dickenson, of New York, was resting comfortably today, notwithstanding the severe bruises she received in the overturning of an automobile yesterday. Mrs. Dickenson was riding with Mr. Duke, son of the president of the Tobacco trust.

Near Versailles the machine skidded and turned over. Duke was uninjured, but Mrs. Dickenson sustained numerous bruises.

FIGHTS WITH LIONESS AND BARELY ESCAPES

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 30.—Two lions have been shot to death at Luna Park Zoo. The trainer in charge called Dr. Crandall, curator of the Buffalo Zoo. The trainer in charge called Dr. Crandall to treat a sick lion, when Babe, a huge, blind lioness, attacked him. The trainer tried to beat down the beast, and in a fierce fight the blind lioness cornered the trainer and ripped his uniform from his back and lacerated his body. He finally escaped through the door.

HOMAGE PAID TODAY TO NATION'S DEAD

Old and Young Bow Heads Over Graves in Washington's Cemeteries.

Brilliant Addresses and Musical Features Add to the Tributes of the Day.

With the rhythm of tramping soldiers' feet, the strains of martial music, the tributes of orators whose voices choked because of feeling, and with a baptism of tears and flowers the Capital of the nation paid homage today to the forgotten dead who died upon its fields of battle. Forty thousand graves, dotting the hills and valleys of a dozen cemeteries, felt the caress of loving hands and forty thousand heroes sleep this afternoon beneath the benediction of another Memorial Day.

Never before has the day been so reverently observed in Washington. Never before has the thinning ranks of the veterans spoken eloquently of the days "that tried men's souls" and of the fact that one by one the survivors are answering the last roll call. So, appreciating this, the thousands who lined the path of march today gazed with misty eyes upon the handful that remained awhile from the ranks, broken though they were, and falteringly formed, welling answers to the survivors as they answered the last roll call. So, appreciating this, the thousands who lined the path of march today gazed with misty eyes upon the handful that remained awhile from the ranks, broken though they were, and falteringly formed, welling answers to the survivors as they answered the last roll call.

Washington's Own Day. Decoration Day is an occasion peculiarly Washington's own. It was here that the saviors of the nation planned and prayed for its salvation; it was here that the enemy's cold bayonet pierced the heart of the nation's hero; it was here that the martyred President, "shall not perish from the earth."

Therefore, it was fitting that the factory should be still, that the shop should be closed, that the workmen and those who have learned either through experience or tradition of the travail through which their ancestors passed in the sixties, might again immortalize the custom of keeping green the graves of sleeping patriots.

In every cemetery there were gathered the relatives, earnest throngs. Almost every hand bore a wreath and over every marble slab at some time during the day bent a form perhaps, that of a fellow comrade, perhaps that of a little child, which left on the grave of some hero a simple but eloquent tribute that he had not died in vain.

Visit All Cemeteries. To Arlington, Congressional Soldiers' Home, Oak Hill, Lake Forest, Holy Road, Mt. Olivet, Eastern Cemetery, St. Elizabeth, Prospect Hill, Rock Creek, and Harmony cemeteries the adoring pilgrims came, and from the most elaborate ceremonies at Arlington to the more simple ones that marked the observance of the day, where fewer of the nation's dead are buried, the day was one never to be forgotten.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish War Veterans, and the Army and Navy Union Veterans formed at Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street and headed by the Marine Band, the National Guard Band, and detachments from District National Guard, began to parade through the city. Watched by thousands the old soldiers marched up Fifteenth street to the Avenue, thence to Seventeenth, up Seventeenth to H and down H to Twelfth street, thence back to the Avenue, where, in accordance with the plan, the old soldiers and veterans took cars for Arlington.

Line of March. The line was formed as follows: John Finn, officer of the day at Arlington; G. C. Raush and Charles A. Suman, adjutant and quartermaster, respectively; mounted police, Brigade Band, D. C. N. G., Donald G. MacLeod, leader; First Battalion, National Guard District of Columbia, Maj. Anton Stephan, commanding; United States Marine Band, Lieut. W. H. Santelman, leader; Department of Defense National Guard, department officers and official staff; past department officers and official staff; members of the staff of the commander-in-chief, John A. Rawlins Post, No. 1, Samuel W. Snow, commander; Kit Carson Post, No. 2, John Middleton, commander; Lincoln Post, No. 3, W. H. Raymond, commander; George G. Meade Post, No. 4, William J. Bredt, commander; U. S. Grant Post, No. 5, Burton R. Ross, commander; James A. Garfield Post, No. 7, John G. Maynard, commander; Burnside Post, No. 8, H. L. Deam, commander; Potomac Post, No. 11, John H. Randolph, commander; Phil Sheridan Post, No. 14, Charles E. Garrett, commander; Lafayette Post, No. 20, George H. Fehl, commander; Commodore Henry Wilson Post, No. 21, Davis, commander; Charles Sumner Post, No. 3, H. D. Goodman, commander; Farragut Post, No. 10, A. F. Dinmore, commander; John A. Kedney, commander; and for memorial services at cemeteries other than Arlington, and did not appear in the parade.

AEROPLANE FLIES FAR AND SWIFTLY

De Lagrange Wins $8,000 Prize in Rome for Successful Exhibition.

ROME, May 30.—De Lagrange won the $8,000 prize offered in the aeroplane contests here this morning. In the same machine in which he made a trial flight before King Victor Emmanuel early in the week he covered 12,750 meters, or nearly eight miles, in 15 minutes and 26 seconds.

The De Lagrange aeroplane made nine circuits of the Piazza Darni in its prize-winning flight. This is the best aeroplane flight that has been officially recorded.

De Lagrange made one flight in the presence of representatives of aeronautical societies recognized by the French Aero Club, including the president of the aeronautical society of the United States.

"We Will Beat That," Says Wilbur Wright

PARIS, May 30.—"The flight of De Lagrange at Rome today, may be a new official record," declared Wilbur Wright, of Dayton, Ohio, "but it does not equal flights that my brother and I have made. When I get my aeroplane I will make a flight, carrying two passengers, that will make today's record look like a joke."

"Our machine has it on all European flights by having a sliding plane instead of a stationary plane. This enables us to adjust the machine to air currents with much greater success. Our aeroplane can maintain its equilibrium in a strong wind."

BOY DISAPPEARS; ALARMS RELATIVES

Marion Price Last Seen at Boarding House With Strange Young Man.

"I came to my house Thursday afternoon with a tall young man about twenty-five years old. The young man was not an acquaintance of his of long standing. I never had seen him before. He left the house apparently in the heat of humor."

"It was the statement made by Mrs. Lewis, keeper of the boarding house at 500 New Hampshire avenue, concerning the disappearance of young Marion S. Price, who disappeared Thursday and has not been heard from since.

"The boy's aunt is about to leave for Pittsburgh, where she will notify the police of his disappearance and remain temporarily, pending information as to his whereabouts. The boy's relatives are prostrated with the shock of his disappearance."

Young Price was employed at a grocery store near the house in which he boarded. Last Tuesday he informed his employer that he had been offered a better position, and resigned. Thursday morning he left his home in the morning after going to work. Later in the afternoon he returned to the house accompanied by a young man, and, after stopping for a few moments, went out. He carried no extra clothing with him and must have had little money. There is a belief he has gone to New York, and the police in that city have been furnished with descriptions of the boy and his companion.

GIRL BALKS TWICE AT MARRIAGE ALTAR

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 30.—Miss Ella Muchler, a pretty girl of Green Valley, has balked twice at the altar in two days. She was engaged to marry Arthur Eckler, of Lincoln, and accompanied him to the office of Justice Edds.

As the marriage vows were about to be uttered the girl declared that she would never marry on Sunday, as she thought it might be unlucky. She agreed to return the next day and again the couple reached the justice's office. Again the girl balked, suddenly discovering that the parental permission had not been given. She hastened home and the swain has not been able to get her to return.

Kissing Babies

Will soon be the regular occupation of all the Congressmen who expect to be returned to office this fall.

Most people can spend the summer idling in the mountains or at the seashore, but not the poor legislator. He must go from town to town and farm to farm in his district, making speeches, shaking hands, and telling his constituents why he should be re-elected to Congress.

CONDUCTING THE FILIBUSTER

SENATOR STONE, Of Missouri, Who Is Speaking Today.

The Filibuster

Senator La Follette suspended his address after speaking for eighteen hours and twenty minutes.

Senator Stone of Missouri relieved the Wisconsin Senator at 7 o'clock this morning, with the intention of holding the floor indefinitely.

Republican leaders threaten to strike out $250,000 appropriation for Oklahoma City if Senator Gore persists in aiding La Follette.

Thousands to Lose Their Jobs If Filibuster Lasts Over Today

—Representative Tawney

Minnesota Congressman Pictures Dire Results to Pensioners From "Senseless" Maneuvering of Minority in the Senate.

Thousands of men and women employed in the Government Printing Office will be deprived of work and salary if the filibuster in the Senate does not end today.

Moreover an indefinite postponement in the June payment of certain pensions will result from the filibuster if it continues longer than today.

These are the startling facts set forth by Chairman Tawney, of the Committee on Appropriations of the House. In explaining the situation Mr. Tawney said:

"While the patriotic people of our country are decrying the tactics of the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the Union, Senator La Follette and a few Democrats are indulging in a filibuster in the Senate which, if persisted in beyond today, will cause an indefinite postponement in the June payments of the pensions due the widows of those who died in the late war, and of the pensions of the veterans who survived that awful struggle."

"Their folly will also suspend after today the execution of printing work for the Government at the printing office and will throw out of employment in that institution thousands of working men and women who toil therein for daily wages."

"Never in the history of Congress has a minority party pursued the policy of filibustering with less cause and with more serious consequences to the Government than the one prosecuted in the House during the last two months, and the one now in progress in the Senate."

"The general deficiency appropriation bill carries many sums necessary for the public service, chief among them being $10,000,000 necessary for the June payment of pensions and $500,000 required for payment of wages in the Government Printing Office."

"Unless the Senate filibuster ceases today in time for consideration and adoption of the conference report of this bill first by the Senate and then by the House, and for its enrollment and signature by the President, the Government will be compelled to default for the first time in its history in the payment of pensions to the soldiers and their widows, and the Government Printing Office will be prevented next Monday morning from opening its doors and beginning its customary activities, in which so many are engaged in earning their daily bread."

"Filibustering in either House of Congress has heretofore been confined to occasions when it was claimed the right of discussion was denied or constitutional government was, according to the conviction of the minority, endangered. But during this session of Congress a new policy has been adopted. The minority of the House consumed in senseless roll calls the time that should have been devoted to the consideration of questions of government, while Senator La Follette and a few Democratic assistants in the Senate are now engaged in filibustering by reading state documents in order to demonstrate to the country that they can prevent the passage of legislation."

RUSSIA PREPARES TO ENFORCE DEMANDS

Revolt Reaches Stage Beyond the Power of Persian Shah to Handle.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 30.—Though both the Russian foreign office and the Turkish legation here continue to give reports that the internal disorders in Persia will be settled by June 10, the limit set by Russia, it was evident today that Russia is preparing to send soldiers to the Shah's land to enforce her demands.

The most pitiable figure in the whole affair is the Shah. The situation has got beyond him, and the revolt seems to be under capable leadership. Russia has demanded the subjugation of the frontier tribesmen, under penalty of invasion by Russian soldiers. The anti-Russian feeling, as evidenced in the outbreak at Teheran, is such that for the Shah to attempt to carry out the Czar's demand would be to precipitate an open rebellion.

The foreign office is being importuned by many who are opposed to a punitive expedition to Persia to do all in its power to placate the warring factions before resorting to actual warfare.

FILIBUSTER RESTS FOR HALF AN HOUR

Session Broken on Aldrich's Motion After Twenty-six-Hour Discussion.

SENATE USES CLUB AGAINST DEMOCRATS

Stone Relieves La Follette After Record Talk, and Will Continue as Strength Lasts.

FILIBUSTER RECORDS

Senator La Follette, in opposition to Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill, spoke continuously eighteen hours and 20 minutes.

Senator William Vincent Allen of Nebraska, in October, 1893, defeated the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman law by talking fourteen consecutive hours.

Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, in March, 1900, killed the river and harbor bill by a filibuster of several hours on the last day of the session.

Senator Carmack of Tennessee, with the aid of Senate Democrats, in March, 1907, killed the ship subsidy bill by a successful filibuster.

Senator Gorman of Maryland, in 1893, led Senate Democrats in a filibuster that killed the force bill.

After having been in session continuously since 11 o'clock Friday morning, throughout which time the filibuster against the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill has been in progress, the Senate at 1:25 o'clock this afternoon took a recess for thirty minutes.

This action was taken on motion of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island. In moving a recess he pointed out that the session had lasted more than twenty-four hours, and it was desirable for the comfort and convenience of Senators that a brief respite be taken. But he served notice on those conducting the filibuster that for himself he was willing to remain here for weeks longer.

Just preceding the motion to take a recess Senator Foraker of Ohio raised a point of order against Senator Stone of Missouri, who spoke continuously from 7 o'clock in the morning until 1:25 in the afternoon.

Senator Foraker's point was that without leave of the Senate the Senator from Missouri had no right to continue to read as he has been doing under the guise of the privilege of debate.

Senator Foraker withheld his point of order temporarily in the expectation that it would be passed on by the chair following the recess.

Needs Senate Rule.

It support of his point of order Senator Foraker read from the standing rules of the Senate and from Jefferson's manual, the only rules by which the Senate is guided to show that under none of the rules did a Senator have the authority to read in the place any matter without the consent of the Senate.

"The privilege of the Senator," said Senator Foraker, "is to speak. It is his privilege to address the Senate by speaking and not by reading from works of fiction and other volumes as the Senator from Wisconsin did here yesterday. It isn't the privilege of the Senator from Missouri to hold us here for six hours reading from various documents instead of speaking and then to start in on a volume of 500 or 600 pages, as he is doing, with a view evidently of inflicting that upon us."

Needs Unanimous Consent.

Senator Foraker argued that because this rule was seldom enforced that a Senator had to have unanimous consent before reading any matter was no indication that the rule was not in effect.

In case Senators engaged in a filibuster are prevented from reading without unanimous consent, it is apparent that the difficulty of protracting the discussion of the currency bill will be greatly increased. Senator Foraker's point of order, if upheld, will go far to shorten the session.

Find a New Club.

The most sensational feature of the attempt of the Republican leaders to tire out Senator La Follette and make him conduct his filibuster alone, and thereby exhaust himself, was disclosed today, when it became known that the public buildings bill is being held as a club over the heads of Senators who have shown a disposition to aid the Wisconsin Senator.

This became known today, shortly after Senator La Follette surrendered the floor at 7 o'clock to Senator Stone of Missouri, who promised to carry on the filibuster as long as his voice and strength held out.

Senator Gore succeeded in having incorporated in the public buildings bill an appropriation of $250,000 for Oklahoma City. His sympathy for Mr. La Follette and his readiness to aid him in calling for quorums and having matters
